

How much does computation play into your daily research?

Did you set out to continue a path in research or did your career path change and push you towards research?

You clearly had to manage so many aspects of your life, completing your MD and PhD, so how were you able to do it?